The snake hole, a dungeon of solitary confinement, which will be turned into a museum to show "man's inhumanity to man," Governor Hunt and Judson King standing with two convicts.

By Judson King.

On the night of March 23d I slept in the Arizona state prison at Florence, locked in cell No. 48 with a convict. On the tier below was Governor Hunt, sleeping in cell 24 with a felon for company.

My bunk was first cousin to a
